payld S. Rose Gives "The Other" Side of This Great Question.

TELLS WHY HE OPPOSES IT.

ge Also Suggests a Remedy in the Amendment of Pederal Laws And Other Means.

Calming that prohibition is a high sounding theory, but wholly insufficient and destructive in actual practise, and branding the record of prohibition as written in the history of state, county and city as a record of universal and enexceptional failure, Mayor David S. fost of Milwaukee expounded his views before a large audience in the cheater list evening on what he terms "True

Prohibition. Governor William Spry presided at the meeting. Mayor Bransford introduced the speaker of the evening. The stage was occupied by a number of clizens prominent in the prohibition cause, as well as those who do not facause, as well as those who do not faver prohibition: in fact, it was a meeting which everybody who attended was there for the purpose of "hearing both sides," and Mayor Rose did not disappost them in presenting the side of the liquer question opposed to prohibition. In his opening remarks Governor spr said: "There are two sides to every question. During the last few months the people of Utah have had the good fortune to hear the prohibition side. Now in a spirit of fairness for which the people of Utah are noted, they are gathered to listen to the other side of this very important question." Governor Spry then introduced Mayor Bransford, who was received with a round of applause. Mayor Bransford said the visit of Mayor Rose was of great instruction to him, and that during the day, while he and Mayor Rose were going over the city together in an ing the day, while he and alayor Rose were going over the city together in an automobile, he had learned to respect Milwaukee's mayor and to feel that he was a thinking man whose coinions were entitled to consideration. He then introduced Mayor David S. Rose, of introduced Mayor David S. Rose, of Milwaukee, who, after complimenting the people of Salt Lake City on their heatiful and substantial municipality, spake in part as follows:

I shall strive not to offend him who may differ with me. I hold that it is the privilege of every man to hold whatever opinion he may conscientiously eensider right.

The average American voter is 3 poitical drone. He is either too lazy or too indifferent to discharge the duties of citizenship, but selfish enough to accept all of the blessings of government and complain because he does not re-ceive more. He will not even inform himself respecting the issues in the de-termination of which he has voice. Between the cowardice of the busi-ness man and the lethargy of the voter,

The speaker then proceeded to artisin the states which had adopted prohibition, claiming that their experience with prohibitory laws had been failures. He said with 57 years of problibition, the state of Maine had here drunkenness than in any so-called here drunkenness than in any so-called "ast" state in the Union. THE ORPHEUM HEADLINER THIS WEEK.

Lily Lena, the charming English comedienne appearing this week at the Orpheum theater, is among the most popular of the many English vaudeville artists who have appeared on this side of the "herring pond," and her success has been unprecedented. Miss Lena has had some special songs written for this, her first western tour, and these she is singing all this week at the Orpheum as she, and she only, knows how. She has appeared at all the principal music halls in London, and throughout England, has figured on several occasions as "principal boy" in the annual Christmas pantomimes at Drury Lane Theater, London, is a young lady of much talent and many attractions, and that she will continue to ascend the ladder of fame in the future as she has done in the past goes without saying.

AMUSEMENTS.

reception at the Methodist church last reception at the Methodist church last night. While the house was not crowd-ed, there was a good, representative audience, and the attendance was largely composed of members of the local Ohio society, the Cambrian asso-ciation and Salt Lake musicians.

Nearly every number of the 11 on the program was encored, which formed the only drawback of the evening, as both the original numbers and the en-cores being mostly on the heavy order, the effect towards the close became somewhat monotonous; but for the singing society as a whole, only words of commendation can be pronounced.

There are about 40 members, and the parts are well balanced, though the second bases in richness, tone and vol-ume predominated. The first tenors were refreshingly clear. The chorus sang several times, but its best work was probably the encore given as a response to Dudley Buck's "On the Sea, "The Pilgrims," by Dr. Parry, heard here for the first time since the Tabernacle choir rendered it prior to the contest in Chicago in 1893. The Ohio singers rendered it with fine effect. An ingenious arrangement of "Old Black Joe," also an encore number, was immensely applauded; "America" opened the bill and "Cambria's Song of Freedom" closed it. Both were excellently done.

The organization is rich in soloists and the individual numbers were as heartfly received as the choruses. Mr. Calvert, baritone, Mr. Grubb, tenor, Mr. Evans, who gave a Welsh song, Mr. Walker, tenor, who gave the solo from "Aida," and Mr. Jones, who sang from "Aida," and Mr. Jones, who sang the well worn "Toreador" song, all had hearty receptions, and most of them had to give a second number. Mr. Jones' response, when he gave "Sleep, Baby, Sleep," was especially charming, and was better suited to his voice than the "Carmen" selection. Messrs. the "Carmen" selection, Messrs Grubb and Calvert were encored for their duet, and the male quartet, which gave "The Star of Love." showed a beautiful balance of parts. The conductor. Mr. Owens of Chicago, handled his singers excellently throughout, the only criticism heard being that they worked with such beautiful precision as to sometimes invite the charge of as to sometimes invite the charge of being mechanical rather than inspirational; but as to their correctness, their tune, tone and volume, there could be no two opinions.

The Ohio visitors were well entertained during the day, first by a trip to Saltair, later by a reception held in the church, where many of the andithe church, where many of the audience, especially members of the Ohio society, complimented the leader and singers on their work. The affair was under the management of Messrs. Joh James and Evan Arthur, who did their utmost not only to make it a success, but to see that the visitors left Sait Lake with a good opinion of its people.
